

Form

Form refers to the way music is structured into sections.

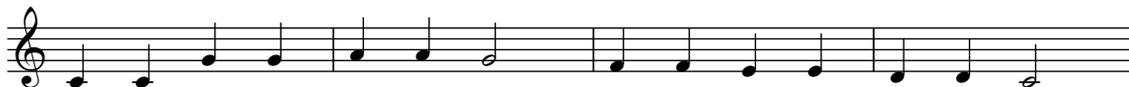

One of the simplest song forms is called binary form. This is where there are two sections, an 'A' section and a 'B' section.

Another common form is called ternary form. This is there is an 'A' section and a 'B' section, followed by a return of the 'A' section.

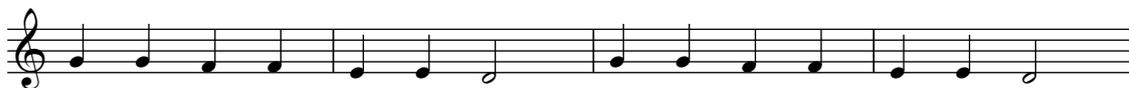

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star" is an example of ternary form.
